Occupation (if available)		Telecommunications cable installer
Text of submission		As a husband and father of a family with 2 members who have a disability, job security is VERY important. At any time my situation could change and have to spend time looking after either one of them. To be able to pay off a mortgage, a car, send the children to school and pay the bills, nothing would be better than a secure job. For the last 10 years, all that has been offered is casual and temp work. How can you even contribute to Super when there is no stability in the job market. I did not ask for my family to be unwell but need to ask for a stable job to provide them the best I can.
